Summary

This course is grounded in the premise that everyone has the potential to improve their communication skills. The course addresses and remediates a broad range of unproductive, uncivil, or challenging communication behaviors. Breakdowns in communication, within teams or with patients, can occur in many ways. Common examples include outbursts of anger, misunderstandings of tone or volume of voice, cultural differences, inappropriate humor, the use of touch, and others. All of these breakdowns can result in stressful work environments, costly turnover in staff, and poor clinical outcomes. Through the comprehensive pre-course, participants become versed in the damage done when these lapses in proper communication occur and initiate the process of self-assessment. Participants arrive at the seminar primed to examine their infractions.

The course is facilitated in a highly interactive, small-group format and taught by one primary faculty member who reviews each participant's pre-course assignment submissions. This pre-review allows faculty to be aware of each participant's unique background and cause(s) for referral and use this information to structure and personalize their facilitation of each course. Participants are guided to see where they initially went astray, gain critical insight into why it happened, and are held accountable to prevent future missteps by creating and presenting a Personalized Protection Plan[®]. This novel framework for remediation is known as the PBI Method[®], a process-oriented approach to achieve impactful and lasting educational intervention.

Reasons for Referral

- Lack of awareness about how one comes across to others
- Poor conflict management (Failure to professionally manage challenging situations or individuals)

Course Objectives

Upon completion, participants should be able to:

assessments, therapy, or any other resources that they may see as providing opportunities for growth and enhanced remediation.

Requests for AIR Letters should be made in writing in the referral documentation. Click here to learn more.
